“ Some 25 years back I recall a memory helping Uncle Jr. with a sawmill lumber job we did for Mr. Fred Tucker on his farm close to Mifflin Tennessee. I recall him taking time to explain things to me that looking back now mean so much to me. We was sawing a huge Cedar tree into one inch planks and before we squared it up into a block he explained that each ring means one year of growth. It must have been close to two hundred rings as we counted during sawing the blade cut into a old timey bullet from the civil war area. I was shocked that the tree had been around so long and this stated my love for cedar. This is just one of many things Uncle Jr. showed me over the years. I learned alot from him and miss him already.

“ Junior was always very welcoming to us “Wisconsin” friends. Always fun at Talladega. He invited us to his home. Showed us that a potato launcher made out of PVC piping could be fun. Our son Troy especially liked it. Great cook. He will be missed.
