“ Was writing in my calendar today updating my birthdays and realized my dad has been gone for awhile now. And even though I did not get to spend much time with him growing up i did get to share a few years with him as i got older before he passed away. I love and miss him so much and wish my children would have got to know him and his silly sense of humor. My dad made many bad choices in life and choose drugs as his way of living. So this ended his life way to early and to soon but his bad choices did not make me love him any less. I love u dad and miss u daily. I just want to make it known that if u have a drug or alcohol problem there is help out there if u truly want this. Dont want because u never know what tomorrow may bring. My dad was trying to get clean but when he returned to drugs he went out with a vengeance.
