“ At Susie & Julia's request I am adding another memory of Jo. It was March, 1968 during the biggest snowstorm I can remember when two youngsters decided to run off to AL & get married. He was 18 & had permission. I was 17 & did not have permission. But, with help from friends the mission was accomplished & we returned home as old married folk.

Now my mother who couldn't find me called my home away from home & asked if anyone knew where I was. Well, Susie didn't know 😞 & Julia was my maid of honor so she was unavailable. But, Mama Jo told her that she was sure I had run off to get married. Mama Jo never lied & she didn't that day. 🙄

“ Oh, the stories that could be told from the house of Jo. From grammar school through high school it was the house we all ended up at. I know Jo read more books in her lifetime than anyone I have ever known. She shared her knowledge with all of us on a routine basis. I loved staying at her house & at Mamaw Brooks next door. She will always be loved & missed.
