“ This makes me so sad, except that I know Margie is in heaven now with her Savior and that is the best end that anyone can hope for. Margie was as good as gold. I really enjoyed the time I spent with her. We would laugh and have lots of fun. Our family had some great times with Margie, Harry, and Marty and I will always have fond memories of them. The world lost a wonderful person today and I will be praying for Marty and the rest of her family because I know they are deeply saddened by this.

“Margie and I became friends on our first day at Lexington High School in 1964. Sometimes since then, we were together often.....sometimes it was years between getting together, but always it was as if time had stood still and we took up right where we left off at our last meeting. I always knew that Margie would look for the best in every person she met and give back the best of herself. She will be greatly missed. To all who also loved her, may the memories she shared with you bring comfort.....and eventually, a smile to your heart.

*Sincerely,

Margie was a good friend to me in high school when few girls would even talk to me, I was such a nerd. Our friendship continued over the years. A true person.
